Power of Prayer

by Hillorie Morrison

Never underestimate the power of the Women's Tehillim Group. The atmosphere is different than davening silently at home or at the Shabbos morning kehilla. It took my husband's recent illness for me to make the Tehillim Group a part of my weekly routine. It was a real comfort to know that every week a group of women were quietly petitioning on his behalf.

Yes, it takes the excellent medical care available in Baltimore to heal, but it also takes the strength of spirit available from the women at our very own shul. Never underestimate the power of the Women's Tehillim Group.

Your participation is welcome even if it's not every week, even if you read in English and even if you don't stay until the end you get the benefit of a great 45-second story from the Rebbetzin that will last with you through the week.

Melave Malka – New Date

On February 20 there will be a shul-wide Melave Malka at the Eden Cafe from 8:30 to 11 pm. Join us for live music, singing and stories with Rabbi Goldberger. Dairy meal includes pizza, bagels, lox and cream cheese.

Cost is $8 per person, $20 per family. RSVP to Reb Shlomo Goldberger at 410-358-4456 or shlomhuva@aol.com.

Megillas Esther Shiur for Women

Rebbetzin Bracha Goldberger will be giving a shiur on Megillas Esther, this Sunday morning, February 14, from 9 to 10.

Baltimore Blizzard 2010A Torah Perspective on the Snowman

(by Yosef Tropper)

Many people recall all of the great childhood memories related to snow. The fun, the feeling, the magic. Was it just the school cancellation, or was it perhaps something more.

The Hebrew word for snow is Sheleg (שלג). What is fascinating is the fact that the numerical value of this word is 333. The three letters that comprise it are the three letters which represent the number 3 in ones, tens and hundreds (3=ג, 30=ל, 300=ש!).

The Vilna Gaon writes that the word Bechor (בכר), firstborn, is numerically equal to 222. The reason for this is because a firstborn son inherits a double portion. Hence, his name and essence is 2. What is the lesson to learn from the Sheleg which is three?

The Midrash (Pirkei D'R'Eliezer 3) tells us an esoteric fact. Hashem created Earth by taking snow from underneath His throne. What does this mean?

Finally, why do people love to build a snowman?!

To understand all this, we must review the creation of the world. Rashi (Bereishis) tells us that Hashem saw that the world could not stand on Din, strict judgment, alone and therefore He combined Chessed, kindness, and created the world with the composite of Rachamim, mercy. Hashem thus brought together opposite components (Din and Chessed) in order to allow the world to exist. Our job as well is to combine opposite elements and to make peace. We have a physical body and a spiritual soul. Our mission is to utilize them effectively together and to elevate the body.

This is the lesson of the snow. Snow is a paradoxical balance of opposing forces brought together for a united goal. It is not solid or liquid, it is a balance between the two. Snow also paradoxically serves as a protection against the cold upon the earth as it protects crops by insulating and keeping in the earth's heat! Also, large bodies of water store heat that results in significant temperature differences between the water surface and the air above. This contrast brings the warmth and moisture upward which then condenses into clouds that produce snow showers! Snow represents balance, peace and tranquility.

The number three is this exact balance. One is singular and alone. Two is opposing views. Three is the balance and resolution. This is why Yaakov Aveinu was the Bechir SheB'Avos, the chosen of the forefathers. He was a resolution between the two opposing attributes of Avraham's Chessed and Yitzchak's Din. He was Tiferes, beauty and tranquility.

With this, the pieces now come together. The word Sheleg (שלג) is the ultimate expression of peace and harmony, it is the epitome of three!

Hashem created the world with harmony and thus it is referred to by the Midrash as the use of snow.

The snowman building and all of the good feelings associated with snow stem from a deep spiritual recognition that man's job is to become the Adam HaShalaim (Perfect and Complete Man). This ultimate man is one of harmony, congruency and simplistic truth. He is to be the perfect "snow (congruent) man"!

In the Torah, the two times that we find snow mentioned are in regards to the Metzora, leper, who is inflicted with Tzaras which appears on his skin in the color of snow. Now we understand why! The Metzora sinned by speaking evil slander; he needs a strong reminder about being harmonious with other people! And so it comes in the shade of snow.

The bride dresses in white, This is because she is the Kallah (כלה) which is the same letters as הכל, everything. She will be the woman of the house, who as in times memorial, has always been the one that unified and brought the home together!

I will leave you off with a story that I believe illustrates the power of snow's harmony. Last night we had a block get-together. One of the neighbor's cars got stuck and would not budge. Over of the course of the forty-five minutes that it took for us to push him to safety, we were joined and reunited with neighbors whom we hadn't socialized with in ages! Almost every house on the block had at least one representative outside. It was absolutely heart-warming to behold!

Snow binds and brings hearts together. I hope you and your family enjoy!

focus on ShabbosMelave Malka(from <http://www.torahlots.com>)

MELAVE MALKA (Lit. "Accompanying the Queen").

On Saturday evening, after Shabbat, following Havdalah, a farewell banquet is prepared for a most important guest, the Shabbat Queen.

Just as one must honor Shabbat at its entry, so must one honor it at its departure. This is done by partaking of a post-Shabbat meal, called Melave Malka. This custom originated with David HaMelech (King David), who knew he was destined to die on Shabbat. After every Shabbat, he celebrated his survival with an elaborate feast. Some people begin their Melave Malka by lighting candles, in the hope that the spirit of Shabbat will linger in their homes all week.

Everyone is obligated to eat Melave Malka. Women, and children old enough to be trained in mitzvot, are also included in this obligation. It should be eaten at a nicely set table. It is also proper not to remove one's Shabbat clothes until after the Melave Malka.

The Seudat Melave Malka should preferably be eaten soon after Shabbat is over and before the end of four hours into the night. If one does not have an appetite for eating the meal right away, it would be proper not to do any work until after the Melave Malka, except for food preparation. It should not be delayed past Chatzot (midnight).

Ideally, one should eat bread and meat (or some other cooked food) like the other meals of Shabbat. If that is difficult for a person to eat, one should eat cake or some other mezonot, or at least some fruit. (There is an opinion that if one cannot even eat fruit, one may fulfill their obligation by drinking coffee or tea.)

Even if one is full from the Shabbat meals, one should push themselves to fulfill the Mitzvah of Seudat Melave Malka.

The Seudat Melave Malka is not necessary on Motzo'ei Yom Tov. However, some people are accustomed to eat this meal even on Motzo'ei Yom Tov. One may not eat meat for Melave Malka on Motzo'ei Shabbat Chazon.
