Please consider designating some of your tzedaka for the Chemo family, our adopted family in Yerushalayim.

Your donation can be made online, or in person to either Rabbi Goldberger or Nisan Jaffee.

Parsha Potpourri – Selections

by Oizer Alport

V'asisa Mizbeach miktar ketores atzei shitim ta'aseh oso (30:1)

After instructing Moshe regarding all of the garments worn by the Kohanim and the procedure to inaugurate Aharon and his sons to serve as Kohanim, Hashem commanded Moshe to build a golden Altar for the Mishkan, on which incense was offered twice daily. In Parshas Terumah (27:1-8), the Torah details the requirements and laws governing the copper Altar upon which all other animal offerings were brought. Why was it necessary to build an additional Altar in the Mishkan upon which to offer incense? What unique role did it serve in effecting atonement which could not be achieved through the more traditional sacrifices offered on the copper Altar?

The Kli Yakar explains that when a person sins, it causes spiritual damage to both his body and his soul. The copper Altar discussed in last week's parsha atoned for the impurities caused to one's body through his sins. By offering animals on this Altar, atonement was effected for the physical, animalistic body that sinned. This is alluded to by the fact that the copper Altar was three cubits tall, which is the height of the physical body of an average person (Eiruvim 48a).

However, the offering of a mundane, ephemeral animal cannot atone for the damage caused by sin to the lofty, eternal soul. This is the purpose of the golden Altar. The incense that was burned on it twice daily created smoke and a fragrant aroma that ascended heavenward, similar to the neshama, which is also described (Shir HaShirim 3:6) as possessing a sweet aroma due to its good deeds.

A number of the laws and details of the incense and the Altar upon which it was offered symbolically reflect this concept. The incense Altar was one cubit long by one cubit wide, symbolizing with its singular measurements that it atones for the soul, which is unique in its spiritual purpose. It was covered with gold to hint to the tremendous reward awaiting the neshama in the World to Come.

The incense was offered in the morning and in the evening, corresponding to the morning of a person's life when he is born and his neshama begins to shine like the sun, and to the end of one's life when his soul departs and his sun sets. The incense service was performed at the time of the cleaning of the Menorah in the morning and the lighting of its candles in the evening, as the neshama is compared to a light (Mishlei 20:27). In the morning, the Menorah is cleaned, symbolizing the importance of improving one's soul through good deeds and keeping it clean during one's youth. In the evening, the flames of the Menorah are kindled, symbolizing the time that one's soul goes up like a flame to return to its Maker. The afternoon incense service atones for the soul so that it should leave the world as pure as when it entered.

Rav Moshe Shternbuch adds that the Gemora in Berachos (43b) teaches that the sense of smell, which enjoys the fragrant aroma of the incense, is associated with the soul. He also suggests that the Kli Yakar's explanation can help us understand why the Gemora in Yoma (21a) teaches that the Kohen who brings the incense offering becomes rich. Because he disregards his mundane needs to focus on rectifying his spiritual blemishes, Hashem rewards him with physical wealth.

V'asisa tzitz zahav tahor u'fitachta alav pituchei chosam Kodesh L'Hashem (28:36)

The Gemora in Taanis (2a) derives from verses that there are three "keys" which are uniquely Hashem's and which aren't given over to intermediaries to execute: chaya, t'chiyas ha'meisim, matar – conception, resuscitation of the dead, and rain. The Vilna Gaon notes a beautiful allusion to this contained in our verse, which states that the opening up (pituchei) of chosam, which is an acronym for the aforementioned three items – chaya, t'chiya, matar – is Kodesh L'Hashem, exclusively performed by Hashem and no other!

Curiosities Of Purim(from <http://www.torahtots.com>)

- Megillat Esther is the only book in the scriptures which does not mention Hashem's name.
- Megillat Esther is unique in that it contains words which appear nowhere else in the Bible.
 - These include:
 - Tevet: the tenth Hebrew month.
 - Kasher: fit.
 - Patshegen: a copy of the (written) text
 - Ahashdarpenim: Persian word for the King's officers
 - Pur: Persian word meaning "lot."
 - Karpas: Persian word for cotton.
- All the letters of the Hebrew alphabet are found in Megillat Esther, ch. 3, v. 13.
- The Hebrew word Mishte, meaning banquet, occurs 20 times in Megillat Esther (which is equal to the total of ALL the other times it is found in the rest of the Bible).
- The longest verse in the Bible appears in Megillat Esther. It has 43 words in Hebrew (and approximately 90 words in the English translation). It appears in ch. 8, v. 9.
 - "Then were the king's scribes called at that time, in the third month, that is the month Sivan, on the three and twentieth day thereof; and it was written according to all that Mordechai commanded unto the Jews, and to the lieutenants, and the deputies and rulers of the provinces, which are from India unto Ethiopia, a hundred and twenty seven provinces, unto every province according to the writing thereof, and unto every people after their language, and to the Jews according to their writing and according to their language."

- The Talmud instructs that on Purim one should drink until he knows not the difference between "Blessed be Mordecai" and "Cursed be Haman." Interestingly, the numerical value of the Hebrew letters in each of the phrases (and) amounts in each case to a total of 502.*
- In Missouri and Louisiana there are towns called Esther.
- There is a "Queen Esther" Street in Jerusalem and in Tel Aviv, Israel.
- On January 30th, 1944, Hitler said: If the Nazis are vanquished, the Jews will be able to celebrate a special Purim.
- "Hadassah" was founded on Purim, in 1912. Hadassah is Esther's Hebrew name.

*Our resident fact checker came up with a total of 322.

Focus on ShabbosA Peaceful Shabbat

by Binyomin Adilman

(from Kabbalahonline.org)

"Don't kindle any fire in all your dwelling places on the Shabbat day." (Ex. 35:3)

Fire symbolizes anger, which is antithetical to Shabbat. On Shabbat, there is no place for anger. By taking a few minutes before the start of every Shabbat to review and reconcile the events of the previous week, one can easily make Shabbat a day of true spiritual and emotional rest.

The eve of the Shabbat is like the eve of Yom Kippur ...

Many people take these few minutes for inner reflection before immersion in the mikveh (ritual bath), or just before candle-lighting. It is appropriate to take any measures necessary to guard against anger on Shabbat, and it is incumbent upon every Jew to heal any wound that his anger caused during the week. A parent is even reminded not to scold or punish his children on Shabbat.

The word "Shabbat" in Hebrew is spelled shin-beit-tav. This forms an acrostic in Hebrew which reads: "Shabbat-bo-tashuv" – "on Shabbat come back [to G-d]." Shabbat is a unique weekly opportunity to make a fresh start.

Reb Elimelech of Lizhensk taught that the eve of the Shabbat is like the eve of Yom Kippur. In his household, the family as well as all the members of the household staff would fervently beg forgiveness from one another every Shabbat eve until they were trembling and shedding tears. Thus cleansed, at the moment of lighting the Shabbat candles, a sublime and awesome joy enveloped each and every one, pervading all those present.

May every Shabbat be so imbued with repentance, peace, purity and joy!

Calling All Shabbos Chefs

As you might have noticed, the Lev Echad has a focus on Shabbos section. We would like to start focusing on one of the most important and pleasurable aspects of Shabbos – food.

Do you have a signature dish? Something your family can't wait until Shabbos for? Something your guests always compliment you on? Something that's gone 3 minutes after you place the plate down?

Share it with the Lev and its many readers. Email levechad@tiferesvisroel.org.

Thank you.

Giving tzedakah in the name of the departed has the power to elevate their soul. When you give charity on behalf of your loved one, consider giving to Tiferes Yisroel.

And may the soul of your loved one be bound in the bond of life, together with the souls of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob; Sarah, Rebecca, Rachel and Leah; and together with the other righteous men and women in the Garden of Eden.

Step Into A Pre-Copernican World

The Monday night Rambam shiur has started Hilchos Kiddush HaChodesh. These laws deal with how we establish our calendar and sync the solar and lunar cycles.

The Jewish calendar is recognized as "wisdom and understanding in the eyes of the nations." It is a marvel of the Jewish people.

Rambam goes through all the calculations and considerations of our calendar, with the Earth at the center of creation, instead of being a small rock around a medium-small star at the edge of a galaxy in an incon-ceivably large universe of creation. A very different mindset from what we are used to.

Join us on Monday nights after Maariv for one hour in the upstairs Beis Midrash.

Chumash-Rashi Revealed Workshop for Women

Each Monday night from 8 to 9 pm, there is a Chumash-Rashi workshop at our shul in conjunction with the Baltimore Community Kollel.

The workshop is taught by Rabbi Elie Cohen and will end by Pesach. Please contact Rabbi Elie Cohen at 410-929-0607 for further information.

Hilchos Shabbos Shiur

The Hilchos Shabbos shiur meets on Tuesday nights from 8 until 9, and will continue until March 9. This shiur is for men, women and teenagers.

All the previous Hilchos Shabbos shiurim are on the shul website, tiferesvisroel.org/online.html.

Derech Hashem Shiur

Rabbi Goldberger gives a Ramchal shiur on Derech Hashem every Sunday night from 7 to 8 pm in the main shul. This shiur is for high school girls.

The Ramchal sets forth the fundamental principles of Judaism and Torah. This shiur is interactive and promotes questions and comments from the students.
